Solberg-Rammi's new vessel
LAUNCHING SOON!

Henry Colbeck has direct commercial links with a number of trawler companies which allow us to offer a wide range of products sourced from the sustainable fishing grounds of the North Atlantic and the Barents Sea.

Henry Colbeck, Rammi and Atlantika are all Marine Stewardship Council (MSC) certified. The Marine Stewardship Council is an international non-profit organisation established to address the problem of unsustainable fishing and safeguard seafood supplies for the future.

Rammi is further certified under the Icelandic Responsible Fisheries scheme.

Vessels from Rammi make their catches in the clean cold waters of the North Atlantic where fishing is carefully regulated by a quota system. Management of the fishing grounds around Iceland is based on allocating a fixed share of the permitted catch of the various species to each vessel owner. All decisions are based on scientific criteria and the careful work of the Marine Research Institute.

Protection of the fish in Iceland's fishing grounds is based on three main methods;

1. Catch regulations which are developed for each utilizable fish stock. This involves deciding yearly how large a proportion of the stocks may be allocated for fishing.
2. Regulations controlling the fishing gear. Emphasis is placed on the efficacy of the equipment used, which means that effort is made to fish only those species and sizes that are required.
3. Protection and closing of specific areas in order to safeguard spawning or juvenile fish.

Henry Colbeck is
MSC Certified
MSC-C-51570

Atlantika® cod and haddock are harvested in the icy Arctic waters of the Barents Sea and Norwegian Sea. This huge area with strong fishing stocks is part of both the Norwegian and Russian exclusive economic zones. Vessels who fish for the Atlantika brand ensure that they;

1. Fish only at sustainable levels
2. Work to minimise the impact they have on the fisheries' ecosystems
3. Meet all local, national and international laws
