FISH MATTERS UPDATE

by Callum Bellshaw
Our Frozen At Sea
(FAS - Fish Specialist)

I'm writing to update you on the FAS market and reassure you that we're working hard to keep our FAS fish stocks up wherever and however we can and to also support our regular fish buying Customers as a priority.

The main thing I want to say is that we do have FAS Cod & Haddock available, however, at times it may not be the exact size grading you are looking for and if that's the case we'll focus on creating the best offering we can by suggesting alternative available brands or sizes. Give the Sales Team a call and we can look towards securing stock for that week and the week after where we can.

Please be assured that if you are buying fish from us, we will endeavour to keep you on your preferred size for as long as possible and aren't in the business of developing new sales outlets to your detriment.

Fish Catch Profile – Sizes & Quantities:

COD: We are fairly well stocked on the larger sizes of Pin Bone In and Skinless Boneless Cod (e.g 16-32oz+) and Rammi is expected to land their catch Mid-July with a predicted Cod offering.

Tightly graded Cod (6-8, 8-10, 10-12oz) is in short supply, with demand outstripping what's available. This is due to the poorer Cod fishing at the start of the year, which put stress on the original stock, meaning the profile of the catch is now in larger fish.

HADDOCK: The current situation is more sparse, as Haddock isn't being caught in great volumes in any size. This is the same across the Haddock supply chain, with only small parcels of stock being available in the wider marketplace.

We are actively looking to secure more Haddock, but being a bycatch fish, the supply is way below the actual demand. On the latest Catch Report we have received, the Haddock being caught is on the larger size in the Skinless Boneless product, but nothing in great volumes. I believe FAS Haddock will remain extremely scarce in the market place for the next few months – but as always I hope I'm not proven right!

Pricing:

With poorer catches and heightened demand, this has also caused prices to rise on a monthly basis and I believe they may still have a little way to go, as we are seeing a regular increases every month.

Quotas:

Looking ahead there is set to be reduced fishing quotas in Icelandic waters and potentially the Barents Sea too. "The Marine Research Institute is suggesting a 13% decrease (from 256.593 tonnes to 222.373 tonnes) in Cod quota in Iceland waters for the next fishing year starting 1st of September". This means that from September, the new revised Icelandic quotas will be reduced on both Cod and Haddock. If the Barents Sea follows suit this will mean that less fish will be brought into the industry next year.

I don't want to be all doom and gloom though. As a business we are aiming to buy all the Cod and Haddock we can from our usual suppliers and are also working to stock additional alternative fish brands from other sources.

I'll keep you updated!

All the best,

Callum

National Fish & Chip Day Winners!

Congratulations goes to Frying Nemo in Goole who have won £200 of Henry Colbeck goods in our National Fish & Chip Day Social Media competition.

Keely said "As a business we have always looked forward to National Fish and Chip day. Our staff get dressed up for the occasion and we decorate the shop to help publicise the day and the event. The NFF and Andrew Crook do a fantastic job in publicising the day in the national media and press, which all helps make it extra special for our customers, staff and the industry as a whole. This year we made cupcakes to support the Fishermans Mission and a local charity, as do so many of our fellow fish and chip shop owners."

NFFF Statement: New Advertising Rules to Help Tackle Childhood Obesity.

The NFFF (as part of the British Takeaway Campaign) have been liaising with Government on the issue of legislation regarding the ban on advertising of 'HFSS' (High Fat, Salt & Sugar foods) and have expressed their delight that small businesses have been granted an exemption to the ban, which will come into effect at the end of 2022.

They have secured a number of important provisions that together will greatly minimise the extent of the ban:

The ban to online advertising will apply only to paid advertising, so brands' own social media posts will be unaffected.

- There will be an exemption from the ban for small businesses with fewer than 250 employees.
- The new rules will apply from 1st January 2023, giving operators time to recover from the financial impact of coronavirus before they take effect.

The final shape of the policy represents an admission by Government that their proposals as previously outlined would have had a disproportionate impact on the smallest operators, and the protections embedded in the law will mean that most in our industry will now be shielded from the full impact of these regulations.

NFFF President Andrew Crook said "This shows that the Government are listening to businesses both large and small to ensure that their policies are workable and do not damage the livelihoods of our hard working business owners. Working as part of the British Takeaway Campaign means that we have a great forum to mobilise the entire sector on these key issues and support Government in making the right decisions to improve the health of the Nation whilst protecting the economy."

NEW Polymer £50 in Circulation

The new polymer £50 note featuring the scientist (and famous code breaker) Alan Turing has now entered circulation – please make your Teams aware.

Also a date for your diary: 30 September 2022 will be the last day you can use Bank of England paper £20 and £50 notes. After 30 September 2022, these paper notes will no longer be legal tender, so enjoy spending them or depositing them at the Bank ahead of this date.

The polymer £50 note contains advanced security features, completing the most secure set of Bank of England polymer banknotes yet. The note will join the Churchill £5, the Austen £10 and the Turner £20, meaning all Bank of England banknotes are now available on polymer.

The Bank of England's Chief Cashier Sarah John said "The polymer £50 note is the most secure Bank of England banknote yet, and the features of the note make it very difficult to counterfeit. All of our polymer banknotes can be checked by looking for two key security features: a hologram which changes image; and see-through windows'.

BE A PART OF SOMETHING BIG

A National Advertising Campaign to Promote Fish & Chips!

The National Federation of Fish Friers are pleased to invite you to be part of an exclusive network they are endorsing that helps support local restaurants & takeaways.

NFFF President Andrew Crook said

"For many years much of the industry have been asking for a national advertising campaign to promote fish and chips. The NFFF are delighted to be working with TLC, a global company specialising in promotions. This initial promotion is working with a well known national brand and will certainly get Fish & Chips noticed and drive sales to your business.

All you need to do is to commit to offering £5 off when Customers redeem a voucher and spend £20 or more. You have full control over when the offer is valid, so you can exclude weekends etc. If this is a success, we can explore developing our own initiatives and promotions. I really do think it is a great opportunity to promote Fish & Chips and drive sales especially at quiet times, working alongside a household name."

FREE marketing, new Customers & increased repeat visits!

By joining you'll receive:

- Completely FREE marketing for your business – locally and on a national scale.
- You'll see increased bookings and orders.

TURN 'FODO' TO 'JODO'

P&G Professional (manufacturers of leading cleaning brands) are keen to address and reassure your Customers cleanliness concerns and support your business...

While Fish and Chip shops have remained operational for takeaway services during lockdowns, the reopening of wider hospitality prompted some Customers to suffer from what's been dubbed as FODO, or 'Fear Of Dining Out'.

After a year of being told to stay home, it's only natural to feel on edge when going out and visiting restaurants. So what can the Fish and Chip sector teach wider food service operators about reassuring customers of their safety policies?

Kelly Barnes, of Krispies – winners of the National Fish & Chip Shop of the Year 2019, said, "Whilst we've remained operational during the third lockdown, the continued awareness surrounding hygiene maintenance meant Fish & Chip Shop owners had to pay more attention to their procedures than ever before. Communicating cleanliness was paramount and other food service operators would do well to share their policies with Customers. From the FSA's Scores on the Doors, to the CleanPLUS Experience sticker from known brands, Fairy, Ariel and Flash – compelling, clear materials certainly helped reassure our Customers our stores operate with only the highest standards in hygiene."

The CleanPLUS Experience:

To support the industry P&G Professional launched its CleanPLUS Experience - an initiative to aid businesses in their continued efforts to help build Customer trust by offering resources and materials. Businesses who sign up for the CleanPLUS Experience will have access to co-branded digital and printed materials that showcase trusted name brands such as Fairy Professional, Ariel Professional, and Flash Professional.

Kelly Barnes, of Krispies

APPLY FOR YOUR CLEANPLUS EXPERIENCE TODAY

Anxiety around dining out is to be expected and perfectly normal after a year of lockdowns. A poll of 2,000 adults by P&G Professional in 2020 revealed that Brits who never previously checked their favourite takeaway's hygiene rating - as long as the food was good quality - are now more vigilant about cleanliness and hygiene than ever before. Now is not the time to get complacent, as the same poll revealed that over 70% admit to checking a Fish & Chip shop's hygiene rating before using them, and almost half would not return if they noticed the surfaces and kitchen area were unclean.

Commenting on this, Kelly Barnes continued: "We made sure cleanliness and hygiene was our top priority. Using well-known cleaning brands like Fairy and Flash and the CleanPLUS Experience sticker is a great way to reassure customers of safety precautions. Now that the wider hospitality industry has reopened, we're looking forward to transforming our guests 'FODO into JODO - or Joy Of Dining Out'."

PROFIT GENERATOR:

Make Your Own Tartare Sauce!

This month we've been talking to Colin Cromar from The Fish Hoose in Thornton, Fife about why he makes his own tartare sauce instead of buying it ready made.

Q. So Colin, why do you make your own?

A. For several reasons. Fish and chips are a handmade product and they deserve a handmade sauce, it really elevates the product and gives it an extra value that Customers will pay for and appreciate. I charge £1.20 for a 4oz pot, so homemade tartare provides a much better profit margin than a standard sachet. My homemade sauces are made to a Fish Hoose recipe that Customers can't get anywhere else, so that's important too.

Q. Doesn't it take up too much time?

A. Not really when you think about the benefits. We make it fresh in batches every few days, it's really simple too – mayo, chopped gherkins, capers and garlic with fresh lime (and a little bit of love). I also make my own coleslaw, onion rings, breaded mushrooms and mushy peas.

Q. How do you store it?

A. In the fridge or the chilled display unit we have. It has a shelf life of 4 days and each pot has a use by date on which shows it's fresh.

Q. Any tips for a first timer?

A. Make up small quantities and try them out on your family, your team and even your Customers to find out the one that complements your Fish & Chips best. Whilst some Businesses or Customers may prefer the ready made option, for me a freshly made Tartare Sauce takes Fish to another level and has provided The Fish Hoose with some great Social Media feedback too which is fantastic free advertising!

Whilst the brands and quantities of the ingredients in Colin's own tartare sauce are top secret, you can make a great sauce with our special offer products this month.
