Welcome to a New Face at Henry Colbeck...

Hello Everyone,

My name's Louise Bebbington and I was delighted to join the Fish & Chip community on July 4th, when I started as Marketing Manager at Henry Colbeck – it's been a whirlwind month of meeting and training with my Colleagues here and spending quality time with industry business partners, manufacturers and suppliers.

I joined Henry Colbeck with the express objective of supporting and promoting the Fish & Chip industry through my work and I'm very much looking forward to making that objective come alive.

I've had a varied career path spanning manufacturing, commercial, retail and FMCG industries, and have a strong interest in business to business, consumer and industry-specific specialist marketing communications... BUT nothing prepared me for the amazing Zoom training I received from David Miller (Regional NFFF Director) – he really gave me an insight into the science and the dark art behind making great fish and chips, and what's needed to run a successful and profitable business in this incredible industry!

I attended 4 courses and what did I learn?

Whilst I took pages of notes - the training was very thorough and a few key points stuck in my mind immediately.

FISH: When it comes to fish, choosing the best quality product and filleting with portion size and your margin in mind is fundamental, as is making sure every part of the fillet is used - cutting and storing cut fish to keep it fresh and prevent it from drying out is key.

BATTER: We talked about batter preparation, and the need to set and maintain the optimum temperature via the use of pre-cooled water, continual refrigeration, batch management, ice packs and stainless-steel utensils. We also discussed quality control techniques such as using a flow cup to measure consistent batter viscosity, and 'placing' the batter-dipped fish slowly into the fryer to avoid 'blow off' – David had some great video content to help demonstrate each step of the training sessions too.

POTATOES: With Potatoes we got into sugar content, seasonality and varieties, and the optimum combination needed to ensure perfect fluffy, crispy chips. We also discussed storage methods and techniques to avoid bruising, rot and oxidation; and the use of barrel drainage plates to effectively remove starch, and legislation concerning the disposal of wastewater and peelings into drains.

OILS & FATS: I learned that 'your sieve is your best friend' when it comes to maintaining day to day oil quality and cleanliness to maximise oil performance in the fryer, minimise carbon contamination and guarantee good quality food for Customers every time.

There's still so much to learn for me and I'm at the start of my journey. I'd be delighted to hear from you on email direct if there's anything you'd like to discuss or if you'd like to feature in a future What's Hot magazine - marketing@colbeck.co.uk

SAVE THE DATE: I hope to meet many of you on Sunday March 26th 2023 at our exhibition in Harrogate.

Louise

PS: In the meantime... CONGRATULATIONS!

Well done to the winners of our July NFFF Zoom Training Courses - Fish Cottage, York - Shap Chippy, Shap - Fishnets, Greenside & Town Fryer, Carlisle. I hope you all enjoy the training courses as much as I did. 😊

SAVE THE DATE Our next WHAT'S COOKING EXHIBITION is on SUNDAY 26th March 2023 in Harrogate, Yorkshire.

KEEP ON FRYING

A message from Andrew Crook, NFFF President

We have now received the news we were expecting from the Government about the trade sanctions on Russian - caught fish. I have been meeting with DEFRA every couple of weeks and have met with Victoria Prentis, Minister of State for DEFRA, a couple of times on Zoom. It was the Minister who delivered the news that the tariff of 35% will be applied to any fish that has not cleared Russian or Belarussian customs by midnight on the 19th of July. Yes, it may drive fish prices further skyward, but they have not singled fish out, they have applied a tariff or a complete ban on all but two materials that come out of these nations. I have been aware that the tariff has been inbound for some time, and that some retail fish that is sent to China for processing may have its country of origin changed to China and escape tariff, which means we are uniquely affected by the current global events. I was told at the start that nothing was off the table regarding assistance, but as the cost-of-living crisis has evolved we are now just one sector crying out for help.

I have received some criticism for negative stories in the press, but it is so difficult to change the narrative and certainly the headlines, the media do like to sensationalize things, but it is important we try to get our points across. This really is a huge crisis for the industry, and it is my job to represent the industry as best as I can, hopefully most can see what I was aiming for. Now is the time for the Government to come up with a long-term strategy for hospitality and a big part of that is reform on the way tax is applied. I have not given up on this yet and I have been contacted by a shadow minister which could be a great opportunity to get this some great airtime. Without the NFFF there would not be this focal point for the media and for politicians to reach out to, we are working hard for the industry and are more effective than ever.

Whilst we are fighting for support, we must try to navigate our way through the situation. Hopefully, oil prices are on the way down and fuel prices are showing signs of starting to lower but fish looks like it is going to remain high. It is now more important than ever for businesses to monitor their income and expenditure. Keep a running total to give you an idea of what is going on. Keep an eye on your portions and your yield from preparing potatoes and fish too. Mark Petrou (westparkstreetchippie.co.uk/our-story) once told me that 'you make more money when your shop is closed' - meaning to improve the profitability of your business you need to take time outside opening hours for instance to review and cost up your menu and promote and market your business.

We can't forecast exactly what is going to happen. As businesses sadly close, which we fear is inevitable, customers will be redistributed, they may swap visits to restaurants for nights in with a takeaway and we are also expecting retail to suffer as people move towards cheaper proteins. What is for sure is that we need to keep talking and sharing ideas. You are not alone and when times are tough it's good to talk to each other. That is what the NFFF is about, so if we can be of any help please get in touch. If you are not a member then please consider joining, the more members we have, the more support we can offer you and your business.

Don't forget to check out the National Fish and Chip Awards too. We are putting a lot of work into this as it can really help raise the profile of the industry, and certainly of the winners, so please get involved. We must thank all the sponsors who are supporting the fish and chip sector. We couldn't do it without them, and it is much appreciated.

The Original and the Best

Once upon a time...

Henry Jones famously invented his Bristol-born self-raising flour in 1845. Receiving an American patent for his unique process only a few years later instigated the Age of Dry Mixes, the birth of packaged, pre-mixed, just-add-water breads, cakes, pancakes and more.

Renowned for being the original batter mix, over 70 years ago Henry Jones fine-tuned and patented his flour formula to become synonymous with the finest batter solutions to serve the British Fish & Chip community. The Henry Jones portfolio combines his traditional craftsmanship with quality mixtures that operators know and love.

Henry Jones batter mix special recipe delivers the unique rippled, spike texture and colour depth your customers' eyes will be drawn to, without any compromise. Suitable for use with fish, sausages, onion rings chicken, burgers and other fresh foods.

Unrivalled excellence...

Steeped in heritage, Henry Jones relies on a tried and tested special recipe, a closely guarded secret for over 70 years. With its unique texture, quality and colour, Henry Jones' batter hugs the product more, holding a tighter level of coating. Unrivalled, you can rely on Henry Jones products no matter the application or challenge... meaning your dishes will consistently deliver and delight.

Trusted in Fish & Chip shops, Henry Jones offers a portfolio of high-quality, authentic products that guarantee total reliability.

Henry Jones solutions...

Henry Jones believe that quality should never be compromised no matter what the circumstance. With no soy or artificial colourings, the range provides a less puffy, more textured batter with a softer bite, perfect for any Fish & Chip shop.

Henry Jones offers a variety of colour choices to meet all Fish & Chip owners and consumers preferences. With a proud tradition of excellence, the Henry Jones portfolio sold by Henry Colbeck consists of:

- Henry Jones Gold Batter Mix
- Henry Jones Normal Batter Mix
- Henry Jones Thistle Batter Mix
- Henry Jones Irish Batter Mix

Karen Heavey, Brand Manager at Kerry Foodservice comments; "The Henry Jones Batter Mix range has been a staple product for fish and chip shop owners for over 70 years. With traditional values at its core, this batter provides taste, quality and authenticity that customers crave. Henry Jones gives operators a chance to offer the nation's favourite takeaway in the most traditional way."

TESTIMONIAL:

Dan Harding @ Angel Lane Chippie.

We have been looking for an easy to prepare, yet delicious, vegan fish offering for quite some time. The plant-based market is growing at a rapid speed - you just need to see how much space the Supermarkets are dedicating to it.

We were approached by the Manufacturer OMNI in January 22 and tried a sample of their battered Vegan fish fillet. We were blown away by how good it was compared to some of the other fish substitutes we'd tried. This vegan fish is very good indeed. It has a flakey consistency and a seafood taste to it which is not overpowering. My 3 year old niece (who is a fussy eater) devoured it all!

We fry the fillets in the chip pan, where no meat products get cooked, and they take about 4-5mins to cook.

The fillets have been really well received by customers over the last few months and they are a welcome addition to our menu offering.

In business we have to move with the times - if a family has 1 or more vegans in it they are likely going to get a takeaway from 1 place rather than shopping around at different takeaways and that's exactly what's been happening. In these challenging times extra turnover from the vegan market is very welcome.
